Answer the following questions

Question 1 (40 marks)

Writing an article review is a way for university students to display their knowledge of a scholarly topic; to engage with ideas, theories, research and information in their disciplines or programmes; to rethink and extend ideas in their field of study; and to show how their analytical response to an article is worthy of consideration. As an academic reader you are asked to write a review that offers a critical perspective on two (two only from the six) different themes in landscape architecture theory noted by Simon R Swaffield in his book: "Theory in landscape architecture: a reader".

اختر اثنان من الست المحاور التي استعرضها الكاتب في كتابه عن نظريات تنسيق الموقع و تناولهما بالشرح و التحليل.

Question 2 (20 marks)

Our university has decided to organize a series of public lectures examining the global challenges facing society, and the role of academia in meeting these challenges. The series will focus on the contribution academia can make to understanding and addressing these global challenges.

You are planning to give a lecture (a talk) titled as "Is Green Good for You? Health and Access to Natural Environments". Think about what important points need to be covered, create an outline of your main points, and prepare a short conclusion.

فكر في النقاط الهامة التي يجب تغطيتها في هذه المحاضرة ، وقم إعداد مخطط تفصيلي للنقاط الرئيسية ، و خاتمة قصيرة.

Influenced by Everything We Do—and Don't Do

Question 3 (20 marks)

It has been argued that different methods employed by landscape architects impact the design outcome when applied to a common landscape architecture design. Discuss and state your point of view.

Question 4 (20 marks)

Simon R Swaffield (2002) offers a tripartite conceptual framework for the role of theory. In particular, he argues that theory is instrumental, interpretive and critical. Explain the three different roles of landscape architecture theory, and how theory is made?
